ART OF LEADERSHIP FOR WOMEN IN RACIAL JUSTICE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

the program

Rockwood is excited to offer our seventh ART OF LEADERSHIP for WOMEN IN RACIAL JUSTICE AND HUMAN RIGHTS this October 21-25, 2013 at Mayacamas Ranch in Calistoga, CA.

October 21-25, 2013
Mayacamas Ranch
Calistoga, CA

Join a select community of women leaders to reflect on your leadership, and gain tools to deal more effectively with leadership challenges. This training draws on the best of leadership training philosophies and methodologies to teach powerful visioning, listening, speaking, presentation, coaching, team-building and feedback skills.

This special Art of Leadership has been created with the vision of supporting women of color and white women leaders to strengthen their work for racial justice and human rights.

the trainers

Maria Ramos-Chertok is a consultant, trainer, writer and mediator. Her areas of expertise include conflict resolution, team building, managing change and cultural competency. She received her law degree from the University of Pennsylvania School of Law (Class of 1987) where she was the recipient of the Fordham Human Rights Award for the most outstanding contribution to the advancement of individual freedom and human dignity.

Helen Kim is an organizational development consultant, leadership trainer and coach with eighteen years of experience in working with social change organizations and leaders in the US and internationally. She is a team member of Building Movement Project, consultant member with French American Charitable Trust, and an international advisory group member for Association for Women's Rights in Development.

Having the time and space to reflect on what kind of leadership I value, what kind of leadership our movement needs and what kind of leader I am was inspirational and profound. I left feeling care for, supported, renewed and even more determined to work from a sense of purpose and grounding.

- Amalia Deloney,
Associate Director,
Center for Media Justice

Rockwood's training reminded me that I need to put my purpose and vision squarely and succinctly into everything that I endeavor to do. I really benefited from and enjoyed the opportunity to hear feedback from such a diversity of women."

- Ellen Buchman,
Field Director,
Leadership Conference
on Civil Rights

who should attend

Rockwood invites all woman-identified leaders who:

Demonstrate a commitment to racial justice and human rights in their work.

Have experience working in communities of color on issues such as environmental justice, media justice, racial equity, poverty, reproductive justice, etc.

Incorporate a racial justice framework in their advocacy, philanthropy or organizing.

Participants at our 2008 Art of Leadership for Women Leaders in Racial Justice & Human Rights.

location

Set on a hilltop ridgeline above the town of Calistoga in Napa, CA and surrounded by spectacular 360-degree views, Mayacamas Ranch provides an awe-inspiring, natural setting.

cost

Rockwood believes that leadership can and should reflect the diverse communities in which we live and work, and offers a sliding scale tuition for this five-day training of $500 to $4000. There is separate fee for room and board.
